Discussion of Behavioral and Communication Challenges When Caring for Persons Living with Dementia

alzheimer's association

What Is Communication?

alzheimer's association

Communication Changes Throughout the Disease

Early stage (Mild)

- Convey thoughts and feelings through language.
- Able to make decisions about future care.
- May misinterpret what others say.

Middle stage (Moderate)

- Use basic words and sentences.
- Rely more on tone of voice, facial expression and body language.
- Continue to need emotional connection and meaningful activity.

Late stage (Severe)

- May still respond to familiar words, phrases or songs.
- Use body language and the five senses to connect.

Communication Challenges in the Early Stage

Changes you may notice include:

Difficulty finding the right words.
Taking longer to speak or respond.
Withdrawing from conversations.
Struggling with decision-making or problem-solving.

Communication Challenges in the Middle Stage

Changes you may notice include:

Increased difficulty finding the right words.
Using familiar words repeatedly.
Inventing new words to describe familiar things.
Easily losing train of thought.
Speaking less frequently.
Communicating through behavior rather than words more often.
Consult a doctor when you notice major or sudden changes.

Communication Challenges in the Late Stage

Changes you may notice include:

Communication is reduced to a few words or sounds.
Possible responses to familiar words or phrases.
May communicate primarily through gestures or facial expressions.

Understanding Behaviors as a Form of Communication

Imagine If Professions Were Described Only By Behaviors

What AM I?

- I frequently run from place to place in a room
- Usually, I am sweaty and/or have dirt on my clothing
- Sometimes I yell at people to get them to do what I want
- You rarely see me sitting
- I enjoy painting my face with bright colors
- Sometimes I speak and other times I just use gestures
- I like to be around children even though I am an adult
- Playing with balloons is my favorite game

What AM I? Versus Who AM I?

Common Dementia Related Behaviors

- Confusion or Suspicion
- Anxiety or Agitation
- Repetition (Verbal or Physical)
- Sundowning
- Wandering
- Hoarding
- Aggression

How to Connect or "I See You"

Knowing the person is critical to person focused care:

- Preferences
- Routine/Schedules
- Cultural History
- Family and Career History

alzheimer's association

How to Connect: Early Stage

Ask directly how to help with communication.
Keep sentences clear and straightforward.
Leave plenty of time for conversations.
Include the person in conversations that affect him or her, including planning for the future.

Keep in mind:

Avoid making assumptions.
Speak directly to the person.
Communicate in the way that is most comfortable for the person.
Be honest, laugh together, and stay connected with each other.

How to Connect: Middle Stage

Approach from the front, say who you are and call the person by name.
Maintain eye contact and get at eye level if seated or reclining.
Avoid criticizing, correcting and arguing.
Pay attention to your tone.
Use short sentences and basic words.
Speak slowly and clearly, one person and one question at a time.
Limit distractions.
Offer a guess or fill in words if acceptable.
Be patient and take your time.

Keep respect and empathy in your mind, then:

Assess the person's needs.
Let the person know you hear his or her concerns, whether they are expressed through words, behavior or both.
Provide a brief answer.
Respond to the emotions behind the statement.

How to Connect: Late Stage

Listen for expressions of pain and respond promptly.
Help the person feel safe and happy.
Continue to bring respect to each conversation.
Keep talking "with" and not "over" the person.
Use all five senses to communicate.

Keep in Mind:

Communication is reduced to a few words or sounds.
Possible responses to familiar words or phrases.
Language can still be understood.

Communication in all Stages of the Disease

- Join the person's reality to connect.
- Understand and accept what you can and cannot change.
- Remember that the person retains a sense of self despite the losses of the disease.
- Demonstrate respect and connect through feelings.
- Always treat the person as the adult he or she is.
- Try to decode the person's communications.
- Recognize the effects of your mood and actions.
- Try to understand the source of reactions.
- Help meet the needs while soothing and calming the person.

Responding to Behaviors

1. Detect and connect
2. Address physical needs first
3. Then address emotional needs
4. Reassess and plan for next time

alzheimer's association®

Detect and connect

- Join the person in his or her reality by trying to see the world through his or her eyes.
- Understand the person's reality in context before intervening: Who? What? Where? When? How? What took place before, during and after the behavior took place?
- Approach the person calmly and respectfully.

alzheimer's association®

Address Physical needs first

- Medical issues.
- Physical problems such as:
 - Hunger or thirst.
 - Lack of social interaction.
- Environmental triggers for discomfort.

Address physical needs first

Then address emotional needs

- Focus on the person's feelings, not facts
- Use your knowledge of the person's preferences to provide effective interventions.
- Redirect the energy into a more soothing activity.

Then address emotional needs

Reassess and plan for next time

- Go back to detecting and connecting.
- Join the person's reality.
- What went well and what didn't?
- How can you make adjustments?

Reassess and plan for next time
